

Improve Access To Addiction Treatment

innovaTel partnerships offer solutions as demand increases

The need for substance use disorder treatment is on the rise, and federal funding is being allocated to support the demand for care. But, organizations offering treatment may still face capacity issues that could be alleviated with a telepsychiatry partnership that embeds specialized, remote providers within in-person clinical teams.

By providing psychiatric care as a seamlessly integrated partner with a substance use disorder treatment center, innovaTel's remote providers remove traditional barriers to treatment, improve patient care and improve patient outcomes by offering care for the whole person in one setting. Our configurable solutions offer leaders of substance use disorder treatment centers the long-term support they need.

Integration From Day One

Meeting your needs

An innovaTel partnership is designed to meet the specific demands you are facing. Our providers are available part-time or full-time, and our Clinical Liaisons — experienced psychiatric nurses — guide providers and clinical teams through onboarding while offering ongoing support.

Partnerships that work

At innovaTel, our most common addiction treatment partnerships are formed with:

- Outpatient addiction treatment
- Residential treatment
- Medication-Assisted Treatment (MAT) programs
- PHP and IOP
- ...and more.

Our Providers

Build specialized treatment teams without geographic limitations

- Psychiatrists
- Psychiatric Nurse Practitioners
- Licensed Clinical Social Workers

Valuable Experience

innovaTel works with MAT-waivered providers and providers who have extensive experience providing treatment for complex conditions, including the SMI and co-occurring patient populations. Additionally, all innovaTel providers focus on a harm reduction approach to treatment.

We offer:

- Psychiatric evaluations
- Ongoing medication management
- Consultative services
- Remote Medical Director
- Medication-Assisted Treatment (MAT)

“Telehealth is here to stay, and organizations are rapidly implementing a hybrid model of healthcare delivery. innovaTel's support for community behavioral health organizations through development of its hybrid model makes it easier for clinicians to meet local needs and support recovery. Making people and communities healthier is their passion and ours.”
