

Integrated Care Requires An Integrated Partnership

innovaTel Telepsychiatry helps you offer treatment for the whole person innovaTel's telepsychiatry partnerships bridge the gap between primary care and psychiatric care, creating a truly integrated approach to treatment in an integrated care environment. Our configurable partnerships, built with growth, efficiency and positive outcomes in mind, offer you the opportunity to utilize a care model that works best for your practice and your patient population.

innovaTel's providers are seamlessly embedded into the workflows of your integrated care organization, effectively removing traditional barriers to treatment, improving patient care and improving patient outcomes.

Clinical Care Models

Meeting your needs

An innovaTel partnership is designed to meet your needs and the needs of your patients. All of our partnerships include support from experienced psychiatric nurses who coordinate with your team to create optimal workflow development.

- Consultative model: An innovaTel psychiatrist provides consult time for the primary care physicians or care manager to review the most complex patients without seeing the patients directly.
- Co-Located model: An innovaTel provider connects remotely to offer treatment to your patients at your office.
- Full service model: A combination of consultative and co-located, this model allows for a provider to offer consultations with a primary care team and carry a patient caseload for direct treatment.

“I have been using telepsychiatry exclusively since 2010 as my only care modality. I have seen every possible diagnosis and every age group and have never had to exclude a patient from this opportunity to receive care. With appropriate protocols in place, anyone can safely utilize telepsychiatry.”

— Dr. Liberty Eberly, innovaTel's Co-Founder and Chief Medical Officer who participated in the CMS Compass Study that led to the development of the collaborative care codes
